TROLLEYMEN TURN

DOWN COMPANY'S OFFER Would Not Increase Because Agreement Carried Too Many Clauses.

A short time ago a committee com-posed of trolleymen from New London and Saybrook divisions of the Shore Line Electric Co. waited on the officials of the Shore Line Co. and asked for a raise in wages. This com-mittee was not one representing the Trolleymen's union and the heads of the local union knew nothing about committee until they were notified the Shore Line Company, it is trolleymen will not ask for a raise be-fore June 1, 1918, and when the New London men asked for the raise it was thought that they were breaking the agreement but they were not au-thorized to act for the union. Shortly after this the Shore Line company offered the employes a raise of approximately 7 per cent but with this raise there were certain things that the employes must agree to do. In the agreement it was stated that all the motormen and conductors who were breaking in men should receive one cent an hour more for their trou-ble but that no more than fifteen days was to be taken up in breaking the new men in.

Another clause of which there were fifteen, in the agreement said that the runs of the men would be divided digferently which would take about an hour off of each one. Another clause and that new men would receive a said that new men would receive a standard wage whether they worked or not, but that they must report three times a day to make sure that they were willing to work.

The last clause in the agreement said that the employes if they accepted the raise must not ask for another increase in wages during the coming two years.

A meeting of the union was called to decide on the advisability of accepting the raise and it was unanimously agreed to refuse the offer of the company and to strictly adhere to the old agreement, which does not to the old agreement which does not expire until June 1. 1918.

Thursday noon the officials of the Shore Iane company were informed as to the decision of the trolleymen.

SUING NEW LONDON FOR $2,000 DAMAGES Action Brought By Sciallabba Broth-

for wamages to property in Bank street by water during the heavy rain storm last August. They ask $2,000 damages in the suit, papers of which were served by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin on City Clerk Harry H. Adams. The suit is returnable to the superior court. The Sciallabba brothers claim that they had provisions, meats and gro-ceries in the main floor, and in the cellar of their building at 690-698 Bank street where they conduct a grocery store when they were destroy-ed and damaged by rain water which flowed into the building during a storm on August 22.

They allege that the city construct ed a catch basin at the cast end of their property and that sticks, dirt and refuse was allowed to collect in ond on the basis obstructing and intercepting the flow of rain water which had formerly been drained naturally into Truman's brook. It is also allowed that the catch had was iminto Truman's brook. It is alsa alleged that the catch basin was improperly constructed and that it is inadequate to take care of rain water at that point. The Sciallabbas also declare that they spent considerable money in cleaning out their building and repairing damage.

"Necessity of providing a practical programme for combatting German efforts to seize the commercial lead-ership of the world was emphasized by Dr. Pratt. He said the extension of our foreign trade is an effective bel-ligerent move and urge the government to reognize this fact. South Manchester - Lodge after odge in town, which number forty, are going on record as against serving suppers at or after their meetings. During the winter months, it has been a custom, in the past, to have a supper served about once a month, but this practice is not to be followed by the different er-ganizations during the war.
